

Creative Workshop for Disabled People in Supported Accommodation

Manchester Disability Collaborative and Manchester Metropolitan University are running a free Zine Making Workshop.

It will be on Monday the 28th September from 12:30 to 2:00pm

It will be at Manchester Central Library's Performance Space.

Zines are small booklets people make to talk about something important to them.

The session will be about what relationships look like when you live in supported housing.

We will also talk about whether people can have pets.

People's stories will be part of the Manchester Disability Collaborative's research we will use to make change.

The Manchester Disability Collaborative will take this feedback to people who work in Social Care and Housing.

We want people's stories to teach people what needs to be done better.

There is no pressure to share personal stories unless you want to. We want people to be comfortable.

The workshop is for disabled adults living in supported accommodation

You do not need any art skills. Our team are friendly and happy to help.

Everyone is welcome, but the session is for people over 18 because the topics might be sensitive.

There is no pressure to share unless you want to.

This is a gentle, friendly session. You can come on your own or with support. We would love to hear your experiences.

What will happen:

- We will make simple zines together
- You can draw, write, collage with our materials
- You can take breaks whenever you need
- You can join in as much or as little as you want

- We will take photos of your finished zines before you take them home
- We will use people's stories in our work to make things better
- Some people might be asked if they want to come to more meetings to feedback their experiences to people who make decisions.

Please tell us your access needs as soon as possible.

The space is step free and you are welcome to bring carers, a friend or family member with you if you would like.
